

Points of View for moving to Inner Peace and Harmony...

I am a Human BeingHu is an ancient name of God, indicating my Divine Heritage.....The radiant inner being that I am in essence, my inner beauty, is of a clear higher vibration frequency of light than the image I see in the mirrorI am life, intelligence, awareness, consciousness, individualized as Soul... Souls are synonymous with unconditional love, divine loveWhenever I give unconditional loving, I am giving of what I amThe living intelligence that I am is ever connected as one life in all beings, this gives me a kinship with all that is....My Source is omniscient, omnipotent and omnipresent (all-knowing, all-powerful and everywhere present).....Even when it may seem otherwise, I am always in the presence of the one Source as is all other SoulsMy Source whom I attune to in prayer and meditation is the same Source as all other Souls commune with in prayerMy Source looked at all of Its creation and said that it is good, this included me....My Source loves all of Its creation, this includes me and is why I have a detached love and caring for all life, including plants and animals....My Source gives me the freedom to believe and so experience as I choose to and the freedom to expand my awareness past every temporary limit I establish on my journey of expanding awareness understandings....My Source has it set up for me to learn that I cause / attract my experiences of life, as are influenced by my inner states, so formed as I think and speak and imagine or visualise and believeWith life on earth as a reflecting give and receive mirror, I am learning about my inner state's effects upon the responsible use of power with forming my creations of thoughts or words or deeds...I have the freedom and ability to direct the focus of my attention towards what I choose to experience more of, and to not dwell on what I don't want as my experienceMy Source does not judge anything about me or against me and therefore My Source never needs to forgive meThere is not one hair on my head that is moved that My Source does not know about itAs Soul I am loveable and capable for my value or worthiness is not connected to status or with what I do or achieveAs Soul, consciousness, I have the potential ability to intuitively access wisdom and information beyond anything already knownAs Soul I have a uniqueness as there is no other person on the planet who has eons of experiences in exactly the same ways as I haveAs Soul, the one that witnesses, I can be detached and retain my identity separate from what I experience, or what I perceive, or opinions on what I do.....As Soul I need not put any other person above or below the spiritual being that I am, for as one whole, all individual expressions of life are equally loved and valued in the eyes of our SourceAs Soul I need not defer to, or disrespect any other Soul because of different expressions of wealth, or prestige, or position each is experiencing at any given timeAs Soul, a spiritual being, my security is not based on things of the physical world, or on other's opinions, nor on others believing what I choose to believeI can respect and honour other Souls to the level of not interfering or judging how they should or shouldn't believe or experience their own livesAs my own authority, whilst I am open to listen and learn and copy what I choose to, I can refrain from allowing others to inflict their ever changing beliefs or choices or values upon me, or my unique journey of experiencing, of learning, of expanding my awareness and enlightenmentI will never have need for revenge to hurt or hinder any other, for sooner or later each does reap as each does sowAs Soul, if my body were to lose an arm or a leg I would be no lesser beingIf my body becomes diseased or damaged I can still retain my dignity in the awareness that I who inhabit the body, am of a higher spiritual dimension, and as with all expressions of life, I will always be surrounded and protected by the everywhere present, all knowing, and all loving Source of Life...

I am a compilation of Points of View from other Seeds for building Harmony and Peace from Understanding. I have been made into one pin up so that you can stick me inside the wardrobe door and pick one single point of View to think about during the day..... Simply focusing attention on statements like these above will sometimes shift you into that quiet place of inner peace and stillness where the worries of the world fade as one attunes to a bigger picture of everything being right and proper even though many things are beyond earthy comprehension. As you do this you will know a peace beyond understanding and have the treasure of treasures....and this makes a beautiful life, much like the movie we loved., enjoy; I am from www.goodwillpeople.net